

The Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh presents:

A closer look at Race to Reconciliation

The Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh presents:

A closer look at Race to Reconciliation

Absalom Jones Day Celebration Saturday, Feb. 7, 2015

Trinity Cathedral 328 Sixth Ave., Pgh, 15222

10:00am - 2:30pm

Absalom Jones Day Celebration Saturday, Feb. 7, 2015

Trinity Cathedral 328 Sixth Ave., Pgh, 15222

10:00am - 2:30pm

Guest Preacher:

The Rev. Kim Lattice Coleman

Rector, Trinity Episcopal Church, Arlington, VA

- Please read her brief bio on back

Guest Preacher:

The Rev. Kim Lattice Coleman

Rector, Trinity Episcopal Church, Arlington, VA

- Please read her brief bio on back

Celebration Day Events:

- Holy Eucharist - Bishop McConnell, Celebrant
- Frank E. Bolden Literary Contest Award
- Musical Performance by youth of the Neighborhood Youth Outreach Program
- Luncheon - $8 per person or $15 per family
- Focus Groups, appropriate for all ages, will address current race issues
- Story time and activities for preschoolers and young children available throughout the day

Celebration Day Events:

- Holy Eucharist - Bishop McConnell, Celebrant
- Frank E. Bolden Literary Contest Award
- Musical Performance by youth of the Neighborhood Youth Outreach Program
- Luncheon - $8 per person or $15 per family
- Focus Groups, appropriate for all ages, will address current race issues
- Story time and activities for preschoolers and young children available throughout the day

Registration Deadline January 31, 2015

Registration Deadline January 31, 2015

Please register on line: www.episcopalpgh.org/ajd Then pay at the door.

Please register on line: www.episcopalpgh.org/ajd Then pay at the door.

Questions? or
to register by phone

Call: Nancy Travis Bolden 412-683-8888
Rev. Nancy Chalfant-Walker 412-243-6100

Questions? or
to register by phone

Call: Nancy Travis Bolden 412-683-8888
Rev. Nancy Chalfant-Walker 412-243-6100

The Rev. Kim Latice Coleman

- Recent candidate for Suffragan Bishop, Diocese of New York
- Ordained to the Priesthood, Diocese of Virginia (2001)
- Master of Divinity (Magna Cum Laude) – Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, Alexandria, VA (2001)
- B.A. Economics and B.A. Political Science – Pennsylvania State University (1980)
- Member – Standing Committee, Diocese of Virginia
- Adjunct Professor, VTS, Oral Interpretation of Scripture

The following are excerpts from Rev. Coleman's responses to questions from the selection process for Suffragan Bishop:

What gives you joy?

Family, children, music, singing, writing and laughing (not telling jokes mind you but laughing) all are sources of joy from which I regularly draw. My greatest joy comes from my life in God through Jesus Christ. I have had the extraordinary privilege of seeing my own life and the lives of others transform after embracing Jesus and finding healing in his gospel.

How do your skills and talents add to those of (our) Bishop?

I share in his passionate love of Jesus and the Church.. I am excited to possess practical, hands-on experience... I just led a congregation through leaving a survivalist mentality behind, embracing God's mission, receiving healing from a conflicted past, and opening themselves anew to the Holy Spirit's work.... I have found my penchant for detail and dedication to tangible output to be invaluable for the work of translating a vision into practice.

The new Bishop Suffragan will take our church out into the world, beyond the doors of our churches. Which of your gifts and talents would equip you to do this work?

At heart, I am a pastor, teacher and evangelist. I love to share God's story ... Prior to entering the Episcopal tradition, I served as Director of a Commission on Evangelism that taught me how to respect the dignity of every human being by sharing the Good News without offending or abusing others.

To read more, Google: Rev. Kim Latice Coleman

The Rev. Kim Latice Coleman

- Recent candidate for Suffragan Bishop, Diocese of New York
- Ordained to the Priesthood, Diocese of Virginia (2001)
- Master of Divinity (Magna Cum Laude) – Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, Alexandria, VA (2001)
- B.A. Economics and B.A. Political Science – Pennsylvania State University (1980)
- Member – Standing Committee, Diocese of Virginia
- Adjunct Professor, VTS, Oral Interpretation of Scripture

The following are excerpts from Rev. Coleman's responses to questions from the selection process for Suffragan Bishop:

What gives you joy?

Family, children, music, singing, writing and laughing (not telling jokes mind you but laughing) all are sources of joy from which I regularly draw. My greatest joy comes from my life in God through Jesus Christ. I have had the extraordinary privilege of seeing my own life and the lives of others transform after embracing Jesus and finding healing in his gospel.

How do your skills and talents add to those of (our) Bishop?

I share in his passionate love of Jesus and the Church.. I am excited to possess practical, hands-on experience... I just led a congregation through leaving a survivalist mentality behind, embracing God's mission, receiving healing from a conflicted past, and opening themselves anew to the Holy Spirit's work.... I have found my penchant for detail and dedication to tangible output to be invaluable for the work of translating a vision into practice.

The new Bishop Suffragan will take our church out into the world, beyond the doors of our churches. Which of your gifts and talents would equip you to do this work?

At heart, I am a pastor, teacher and evangelist. I love to share God's story ... Prior to entering the Episcopal tradition, I served as Director of a Commission on Evangelism that taught me how to respect the dignity of every human being by sharing the Good News without offending or abusing others.

To read more, Google: Rev. Kim Latice Coleman